

WOMAN'S CLUBS

For years the cry of the clubwoman has been for a more lively interest in the affairs of today, and the dominant note in all conventions has been that of today's wants and needs as applied to industrial, social and sociological conditions. And yet the greatest fault that men find with women's clubs is that they do not aim at practical solutions of the problems that confront them. Of course they can point to numerous achievements, especially in the special realm of dealing with industrial conditions as affecting child life. But the fact remains still that they are given to discussing dead and gone affairs and ignoring those of the here and now.

There could have been no more striking example of this than was presented to the Utah women who gathered in Logan for the state federation meeting ten days ago. Three sessions were devoted to programmes, one of which was to be given at night, open to the public, and especially prepared, one would think, with that fact in mind. The fact that the meetings were held in a college town, and that this particular meeting would be attended by college men as well as women, and those college men some of the leading educators of the state, should have been enough to make the committee consider long before putting forward any hackneyed topics. There was a balance in the treasury of over $200, and yet no effort seems to have been made to take to the hospitable place where the federation was so royally entertained, a speaker of marked ability. True, there was an effort to have the Logan women, who have stood the entire expense as it was, pay for having another woman come from another place to talk to them on another dead and gone subject. When they wisely refused to do this, there was forced on them a commonplace programme. The auditors were forced to sit through nearly two hours of a talk on a question which is less vital to this part of the country than any other question could have been; and they must sit again those days so dead that they have been buried by the nation itself for forty years.

Vital Problems at Home.

Utah has problems of her own to solve, and the women have taken steps to solve the industrial problems of the time and place. But to invade a peaceful village filled with the hearty and harmony of nature and shining everywhere with God's glorious sunlight and fresh air, with the question of the tenements and slums of New York or the cruelty of slavery was surely taking those present far away from the home problems. If it needs be that these unpleasant questions be discussed, let them be before those and those alone who, when their feelings are harrowed by the details, can deal with the questions in some applied way.

Perhaps no one person is to blame for that Friday evening programme, but it was unfortunate, nevertheless. Never before was the task of entertaining nearly 100 women (the number they were told to provide for), undertaken so cheerfully and certainly it was never so successfully accomplished. Women from the largest towns where all sorts of transportation facilities are to be had for the standing armies at the manner in which the women belonging to clubwomen and women not members of clubs were placed at their disposal gratis. It showed them what a handful of women in two small clubs can do when loyalty, harmony and energy are the guiding forces.

Great Progress by Federation.

That the federation has progressed satisfactorily along industrial and educational lines cannot be disputed when one sees the achievements of the labor committee and wonders done by the traveling library board. But the progress along intellectual lines is surely far from satisfactory when the federation with a balance of over $200 in the treasury does not attempt to secure the services of some eminent speaker who shall show to others what the federation stands for in culture and refinement. Unfortunately the heaviest wrong falls on the people of Logan, who had spared neither time nor money for the coming of the federation to their doors might be a success. And so far as their efforts could make it so, it was the most successful ever held.

Ladies' Literary Club.

Perhaps one of the most entertaining programmes of the year because of its personal tone was that given Friday at the Ladies' Literary Club. The afternoon was devoted to the wanderers and was filled most acceptably with accounts of the travels of three members who had spent the summer broad. Mrs. Graham F. Putnam was the first speaker. She gave a brief account of her travels preceding a more detailed report of her time spent at Bayreuth, and an enthusiastic resume of the Wagnerian festival.

Mrs. Thomas Weir followed with a characteristic sketch of Ireland and a humorous account of her travels through the Emerald Isle the past summer.

Mrs. Eugene Lewis, who has spent the past eighteen months abroad, followed, giving a humorous picture of life as she had found it in Paris, Vienna and Venice. Mrs. Lewis made her wide talk, while descriptive of the lands abroad, a tribute to the greater comfort and convenience of the land of the free. Songs, musical numbers were interspersed with the literary part of the programme.

The next meeting will be devoted to state and general federation matters, and reports from the chairmen of the various committees will be made.

The new year book of the Woman's club is out and is a neat little volume showing the work outlined for the coming year. A variety of subjects are to be taken up for study, including art, music literature and industrial questions. The officers are: President, Mrs. Howard S. Stoddard; recording secretary, Mrs. A. J. Johnson; corresponding secretary, Mrs. C. S. Kinney; treasurer, Mrs. W. H. Jones; critic, Miss Fannie Buckbee; auditor, Mrs. H. Pease. The club held the regular meeting last Tuesday at the home of the president, when Mrs. Kimball read a paper on Grecian art.

The next meeting will be held Nov. 15 at the home of Mrs. P. N. Cook, and Mrs. Cook and Mrs. Armstrong will furnish the programme.

The Cleofan will meet next Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Charles Wells. Two papers will be read in the regular course of study. Mrs. Edna Wells Sloan will read a paper on "The Merovingian Kings," and Mrs. Stanley Clawson will give sketches of Brunhilda, Fredegunda and Radigonda.

The current events and current literature section of the Ladies' Literary club will meet Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Mrs. A. J. Gorham will read a paper on Russia, and Miss Katherine Page will review Maud Wilder Godwin's "Four Roads to Paradise."

At the regular meeting of the Unitary club tomorrow evening Miss Grace Delle Davis, Mrs. Frank C. Kelsey and Mrs. T. J. Armstrong will present once more Brownings' "In the Balcony." Music from Sarasate will be furnished by Mrs. Agnes Osborne.

The Wasatch Literary circle will meet again next Tuesday with Mrs. Oliver. Miss Cummings will read a paper on "Forestry" and the discussion will be led by Mrs. R. G. Mc-Niece.

The tourist section of the Ladies' Literary club will hold the regular meeting on Tuesday at 1 o'clock. The topic of the morning will be given by Mrs. Eugene Whitney on "The Influence of Korea and China on Japanese Language, Literature, Porcelain and Pottery, and Metal Work."

The Shakespeare section of the Ladies' Literary club will meet Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock at the club house and will begin reading the first act of "King Lear."

The monthly meeting of the directors of the Ladies' Literary club will be held Thursday morning at 10:30 at the clubhouse.

The P. E. O. society will meet next Saturday afternoon at the home of Mrs. J. P. Marshall on Second street.
